

Rhode Island

A Hunger and Poverty Snapshot

Between 2019-2021:

- Food insecurity in Rhode Island averaged 8.4%.¹
- Rhode Island's food insecurity rate was 20% lower than the national average of 10.4%.²
- The official poverty rate (which does not account for income from safety-net and tax-support programs such as SNAP, EITC, and others) in the state averaged 9.0%.³
- But using the Supplemental Poverty Measure (which does include safety-net and tax-support income), the poverty rate falls to 6.0%.⁴ In other words, these programs reduced the poverty rate in Rhode Island by 33% and the number of people living in poverty by 33,000.⁵
- SNAP, alone, lifted 26,000 people above the poverty line in Rhode Island, including 10,000 children, per year between 2013 and 2017, on average.⁶

Why Bread for the World is Focused on the Farm Bill

The Farm bill is scheduled to be reauthorized in 2023. No legislation has more impact than a farm bill on the US food system and the nation's ability to provide healthy food at affordable prices to everyone.

Bread for the World's farm bill priorities include a focus on nutrition, equity, and sustainability. We believe Rhode Island has a lot to gain from a farm bill legislated with these priorities in mind.

Nutrition	Equity	Sustainability
Bread for the World supports strengthening SNAP in Rhode Island. Not only is SNAP the flagship food security and nutrition program, it is indispensable to better health outcomes and economic prosperity. In 2021, 13% of Rhode Island residents were helped by SNAP.¹¹ <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Roughly 54,200 workers in Rhode Island live in households that participated in SNAP in 2021.¹² SNAP helps 1 in 10 workers in Rhode Island put food on the table.¹³ 54% of SNAP participants were in families with children, and 49% in families with members who are older adults or are disabled.¹⁴ 95% of all SNAP-eligible people in Rhode Island participate in the program.¹⁵ 	Bread for the World supports farm policies that promote a more equitable food system in Rhode Island. The Rhode Island population is 70% white. According to the most recent Census of Agriculture, 98% of farmers and ranchers (producers) in Rhode Island are white and occupy 99% of all farmland.¹⁶ <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Black producers represent <1% and occupy <1% of farmland. Hispanic producers represent <1% and occupy <1% of farmland. Asian producers represent <1% and occupy <1% of farmland. Indigenous producers represent <1% and occupy <1% of farmland. 	Bread for the World is committed to eradicating food insecurity by building a more sustainable food system in Rhode Island. Reducing unnecessary food waste is one way to build a more sustainable food system. In 2019, 149,000 tons¹⁷ of surplus food in Rhode Island went to waste instead of reaching those who needed it, an amount equal to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> 239 million meals unsold or uneaten.¹⁸ $1.02 billion in lost sales.¹⁹ Annual CO2 emissions produced by 140,486 gasoline-powered cars.^{20,21}
